

NEHA SAMPATH

I have inherited management skills through the various management fests and workshops that I have attended. I also cultivated interest in finance and accounting in due course of my graduation. Accounting & Financial management gave me learning of trade, investment and also diversified areas of a business which requires good management to be profitable. I have developed expertise in preparing balance sheets with Microsoft Excel. The projects that I have worked on in academics and my earlier internships have helped me develop excellent analytical and problem-solving skills. Apart from that, I am very attentive and organized, with experience working effectively in team environments. My background has been filled with teamwork experiences with diverse groups that developed my capability to communicate and manage time effectively.
